Dear Terry:

I shall be delighted to accept your invitation to give a talk on modern Catalan painting if I can gather an adequate number of slides together in time.

I am writing to various people in France and Spain where most of the works are, but have no idea whether I shall be promptly served. Without them I should not feel able to take. You will probably demand rigorous adherence to your programme, so if you prefer to put me off for a year (since it seems you really do want me to do this) I should not mind in the least.

Yours sincerely,

A. N. Millburn.
