Professor I.G. Llubera,
90 Balmoral Avenue,
Belfast,
N. Ireland.

Dear Prof.,

I am writing to you at the above address as I have no idea whether you have completed your mammoth task of moving yet, in which mammoth task you have my every sympathy.

The reason for this letter is that I should like to ask you on behalf of the Anglo-Catalan Society whether you would do them the honour of accepting the Presidency as from the next meeting in September. In fact, it is only because you have been living in Ireland that the offer has not been made earlier, and I can think of no-one else who would be better suited for the position.

Please let me know what you think, and I should very much like to know how you are tolerating retirement. Perhaps you would let me have your new address? We have been very busy here finishing off the summer term, and I have been toying with an edition of the Generaciones which I am doing for a Madrid firm. Sometime I should like to discuss problems of transcription with you. Russell-Gebbett would also like to borrow some books from you once you are settled down.

Out regards to Mme. Llubera and yourself.

Yours ever,

RBT
