Dear Alan,

I wonder if you remember my writing earlier in the year about a 'beginners' summer course in Catalan I was arranging in Barcelona. I wrote to several other colleagues as well, some of whom expressed interest in the idea, but not for this year. As it happens, the course was put on, but only a few of our students were attended. I think the thing could work in future years if we could get 15 or 20 students to go, and wonder if I might test the reaction of colleagues again at the meeting at the end of the month, perhaps under AOB?

Yours ever,
Henry B. Dickinson
