Dear Cremona,

but a line to thank you for your letter and recipe. I am glad to see that things are shaping themselves - we are all looking forward to welcome the A.C.S. over here. A small difficulty has arisen concerning the Queen's Elms - they are unable to accommodate some guests. But this should not upset our arrangements. They will write you about it in a few days. The rest is all right: we shall have at our disposal a pleasant room for reception and meetings.

I forgot to mention - although both Pierce and Ribbons are familiar with it - that there are no Sunday sailings to England from Newcastle. We are planning a short tour around the coast to Monday 31st, as there will be some luncheoners who will not use the plane to return to England. These will have to wait until 8 p.m. to go on board the steamer.

Please let me know if you can be of further assistance.

With kind regards to my wife and myself,

Yours sincerely,
