

UNIVERSITY HALL AND
VAN WICKLE GATES—BROWN UNIVERSITY
Providence, Rhode Island

During the Revolutionary War, the hall was used as barracks, hospital, and horse stable for American and French troops. It was designated a National Shrine in 1963. The Van Wickle Gates are opened only twice each academic year: in September during convocation ceremonies, and in June at the commencement procession.

Thank you so much for your letter, the souvenir menu card & the news of the conference. All goes well here as we get used to the setup.

Warmest regards to Frank & the family. See you all next summer

Yours
Geoffrey.
